During the summer and the few months they have been here, Mr. Clark had gained many friends among the business men in town, who mourn his sudden and untimely death. He was an efficient business man and had acquired a large fortune, which was invested in stocks and other securities, upon which there is said to have been a loss, from which he has suffered financially; and it is thought that this was the cause of his death. It is understood that he left a letter to his wife, the contents of which are unknown. Mr. Clark was about 50 years of age and retired from business before coming here.
